The application has been amended as follows:

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: None of the prior art of record, alone or in combination, discloses or suggests an implantable stent that is initially expandable by means of a balloon catheter, where the stent is expandable radially and has a continuous break along at least longitudinal side, where openings are provided on edges that extend axially on both sides of the break. In a first working position the openings are covered and penetrated by at least one removable holding element so that the break is closed during the initial expansion upon insertion. The break has at least one of a wave-like, zig-zag or meander-like course and includes tongues along one of the edges that are oriented in a first peripheral direction that engage in between tongues along the other of the edges that are oriented in an opposite peripheral direction. The stent is further radially expandable upon removal or dissolution of the removable holding element.
